Kimberly S. Bunting, a former in house attorney for several companies, including a large privately held company, two international companies and a Fortune 50 company, practices in the areas of commercial and corporate law, complex commercial transactions and contracts; real estate transactions; large capital expansion contracts; renewable energy and alternative fuel agreements; global services and products agreements, software licensing and implementation agreements, distribution agreements and mergers, acquisitions (both asset and stock) and divestitures with deal values typically from $5 million to $500 million.

Ms. Bunting also served as corporate risk manager for a Fortune 50 company, in which capacity she was responsible for the placement of billions of dollars of insurance coverage and successful negotiation of numerous coverage matters, particularly in the products liability area. She has consulted with companies regarding their risk management programs to optimize coverage and reduce premiums.
